FYI, ; latest contribution - I think he should choose his friends more carefully....

In the absence of "Tell Shell" I think that this is possibly the best forum for those of us who care about Shell and have informed opinions about the company to share with others. The Donovans perfume (!subsequently corrected!) a very useful function and, whilst I don't always agree with them, I do admire them and certainly do not question their motives or their integrity.

nothing to add over and above our discussion this morning.

I support Mr Donovan's right to free speech - even if it is anti-Shell. That does not extend to IP infringement or defamation. However, even if we have a good chance of winning litigation, it probably is not worth it.
